A Japanese Dinner.

He who does not like the way the Japanese cook fish must be hard to please. They are better fish cooks than the French. The Japanese waters are very prolific, and the natives seem to have learned in cooking to preserve the inherent flavor of the fish, while their sauces are very simple. And as for eels, as they are cooked at the kandagawa, a tea-house in Tokyo, he who has tasted them has established a standard in his mind by which to judge other eels.

Sea-weed we had, too, thin as paper, and crisp. It is the weed of the sea that is left on the rocks and scraped from them by the fisher women with shells and then dried in the sun. It is eaten as a relish and has a delicate flavor, suggesting cinnamon.

Rice we had in abundance. It was served from a bucket (not unlike ours, but not quite so deep) of unpainted white pine, with a little wooden shovel somewhat like those our children use in playing at the seashore. Our rice bowls were filled again and yet again, and when we covered our bowls it meant we had finished dinner. I have seen the Japanese look with indifference at a fish cooked in a way that made my mouth fairly water with desire, but when they are served with rice it receives their immediate attention.—Harper's Magazine.

Napoleon Was a Dandy.

It is pleasant to learn, if one has Napoleon I on the hero list, that he had very dainty habits in personal matters; that he was fastidiously clean in his person, according to an article in a French contemporary, and poured eau de cologne into the water he washed in, then sponged his head with perfume and finally poured the remainder of the contents of the flask over the neck and shoulders. He was also extravagantly fond of clean linen and during his campaigns had relays of sent to different places. In those days it did not cost a farm to have "starched things" laundered, for, in account with a famous laundress in Paris, the emperor's "linen" for one "wash" amounted to 386 pieces and cost only a trifle over $20.

This strikes an American as very reasonable. But his majesty never wore any article but once, and as he always undressed himself without aid from his valet his garments were literally "cast" to the four corners of the room. Napoleon's bill for eau de cologne, however, exceeded the washer-woman's by a large majority. It is a relief to learn that the Little Corporal was so much a dude. Some of his predecessors in the Tuilleries were not blessed with such excellent habits. If history is to be relied upon.

James Whitcomb Riley's Joke.

James Whitcomb Riley and Nye were a peculiar pair. They were everlastingly playing practical jokes.

I remember when we were riding together in the smoking compartment between Columbus and Cincinnati. Mr. Nye was a great smoker, and Mr. Riley did not dislike tobacco. An old farmer came over to Mr. Nye and said: "Are you Mr. Riley? I heard you was on the train."

"No, I am not Mr. Riley. He is over there."

"I knew his father, and I would like to speak with him."

"Oh, speak with him, yes. But he is deaf, and you want to speak loud."

So the farmer went over to him and said in a loud voice:

"Is this Mr. Riley?"

"Er—what?"

"Is this Mr. Riley?"

"What did you say?"

"Is this Mr. Riley?"

"Riley, yes."

"I knew your father."

"No bother."

"I knew your father."

"Oh, so did I!"

And in a few moments the farmer heard him talking in an ordinary tone of voice.—Saturday Evening Post.

Two Ladies of Fashion Meet.

A family living in a North Side flat welcomed a new housemaid last week. The girl had just come from Michigan, and her appearance was prepossessing. Soon after her advent it was discovered that she was inclined to treat the family with a patronizing air.

"Mary, you must do better, or I shall have to find some one to take your place," the mistress remarked the other morning.

"I don't allow any one to speak to me that way," replied Mary, with a toss of her head. "I'm just as good as you are, and I want you to know it."

Mary flounced out of the room and returned in two minutes with the weekly paper from her town. Among the social items was the following:

"Miss Mary Hanson has gone to Chicago to spend the winter. Miss Hanson is an acknowledged belle in the leading circles of Sawdust Creek."

Mary waited until her employer had had time to read the "personal," and then she said with withering scorn:

"As I have always been accustomed to going with the best in my town and as I don't believe you ever have your name on the society page of the Sunday papers, I guess I can't afford to stay with you."

The New York woman declared the domestic life at closed.—Chicago Inter Ocean

METHODS TO ACQUIRE THE MEANS

The trusts made another move in the right direction as written between the lines in the late action of the Senate and House. The band of Mark Hanna was in the move made, which was evident from the hilarious feeling manifested by that gentleman when the result of the vote in the Senate was made known on the bill that consigned to the trusts the United States treasury and the people during the campaign, and for such further term as may be required to do the work there is included in the robbery to be made to aid the trusts and the Republican party to return McKinley for another term to the presidential office.

There is no difference in the position of the Republican party and the trusts to the people, as the party provides methods and means whereby the money is taken from the people, and the trusts take it from the treasury. The late work of congress and the steel and iron trusts have placed the treasury as completely in the hands of the party and the trusts as it is possible by legislation to do so.

The Senate and the House could not agree on the price that should be paid to the steel and iron trusts for the required steel and iron for new ships for the navy. The trusts were demanding outrageous prices, $545 to $600 per ton, for steel and iron, which was deemed to be beyond reason by those who knew the values of these products. A number of conferences had been entered upon by committees from the Senate and House on the subject, to no purpose. No agreement seemingly could be arrived at by these committees.

A fourth report was made to the Senate declaring a disagreement by the committees, when a compromise was offered by Mr. Penrose of Pennsylvania which included the plan of the trusts and Hanna with others in the scheme. The compromise was adopted by the Senate, which passes over to the Secretary of the Navy all matters connected with contracts for steel and iron for the new ships. There is $17,000,000 to $20,000,000 in contracts to be awarded for steel and iron.

There is not on record such work by any government of a civilized people in the history of nations. The treasury of the United States is in truth turned over to the Secretary of the Navy and the trusts. The secretary will represent the administration and the party, while the trusts will take care of themselves. The power of the Secretary of the Navy is without limit respecting the price that may be paid for steel and iron. There is a proviso in the plan that gives to the secretary the right to construct a government plant for the manufacture of steel and iron for government purposes, should he be unable to make contracts with the trusts, which is intended as a lever upon the trusts when the donation for campaign purposes to be made by the trusts comes up for adjustment.

There is appropriated by the amendment $1,000,000 to buy a site and construct a plant for the use of the government for steel and iron production for naval and other purposes. The provision made for a government plant is a fraud upon its face, as there is nothing said about the place where the plant shall be built, or about its dimensions, or about anything connected with it, which is another monstrous power conferred without limit or direction. When the fraudulent compromise was adopted, it was reported that Senators Hanna, Elkins, Scott and others were very much pleased over the result. There will be more cause for investigation in the near future than there is now in Cuba.

BUILD A SMELTER

The JOURNAL is informed that the work required for the construction of a smelter is going along in a very satisfactory way. The required subscriptions have been largely made by our people who are taking, as they should, an interest in the work. If there is anything needed in Reno or in the State, it is some evidence that we have faith in ourselves and in our surroundings.

There is not a man in the State who knows better the disadvantage the people have labored under in the past than the writer, but there is a brighter future for all of us, in the fact, if, in nothing more, that we are becoming aware of our own ability and the possibility there is to do something for ourselves, which will relieve us of the weight that has been so heavily upon us.

Every man who can should place his shoulder to the wheel of fortune that is our way when we turn it in our direction. The man who is in doubt about the work he is doing will not find it. Faith in ourselves and in the land we live in is required to do a very little, but when we have learned that we can stand alone, there will be no trouble about the gait that will follow an upright position.

Confidence in ourselves and in our individuality are the chief needs of an overburdened people. The loads we have carried will be thrown off when we are persuaded that we are master of the situation, and the only way we can become master is by using the ability we have, which is equal to all the demands there are upon us.

Capital Looking Toward Nevada.

The attention of capital continues to be directed to Nevada. There is a future for the most wealthy state in the Union in natural development and values in soils and minerals. The one is a result of the other. The decomposition of mineral properties that are so largely developed in the basin has made its soils the most productive of any soils that are upon the earth.

These properties are in a highly prepared state for vegetable food purposes in all basin soils. All the mineral properties that have been given to the soils continue in them as there is no way to carry them out of the basin by floods or excessive washings, and in that fact there is explained the great wheat producing property there is in them. There are no soils that contain sugar producing properties equal to these soils, or that contain properties that will equal their productiveness in any line of vegetable growth in the temperate zone.

These conditions are modified largely by altitude and climate which would operate against us should we undertake to produce corn such as there is produced in the corn belt of the middle western states, but with that one exception, which is due to the altitude of the basin, we can challenge the world to compete against us with the best assurances of success in the competition.

The Fire Last Evening.

A few minutes past eight o'clock the fire bell clanged out an alarm for fire. No time was lost in getting steamer and hose carts out of the engine house; then a circulation resembling a swarm of bees, took place, until the line of march was discovered. Here's where an alarm system would play its part.

A defective chimney in the foundry set fire to the woodwork of the building. The blaze was extinguished in the nick of time, preventing the destruction of the old foundry structure.

Golconda's Pony Farm.

Mr. Sibbald stopped over here from Santa Rosa on his way to Golconda where he is taking two ear loads of blooded stock. In the cars are half breed Shetland ponies, thorough bred and Shropshire sheep.

He intends stocking his ranch with these animals, and expects to have a model place at Golconda replete with blooded and fancy live stock of many varieties.

Skipped with Another Man.

News comes from Floriston about a fair, false woman and jilted man. One of the night watchmen at the paper mill is overly wrought up, and why? While tranquilly sleeping away the hours last Thursday, his wife sailed down to the westbound passenger train, met an old flame by agreement, and now the legal husband is looking for that bully with guns and things.

Attention, Woodmen.

The members of Washoe Camp No. 407, Woodmen of the World, are requested to meet at their hall at 1:30 Sunday afternoon to attend the funeral of the late wife of Brother H. M. Jensen. By order of the Council Commander.

Generous Check.

Dan Boyd, county treasurer, received through the mails yesterday a check of $15,000, payable in "College Currency," and to be devoted to paying off taxes on the University. Poor Farm and Asylum. The one who remitted this neat fortune is a permanent resident at the Hospital for Mental Diseases.

Summer Festivities.

The Owl club are beginning to arouse themselves from a long rest, and will break out with all kinds of merry "jolings."

A moonlight picnic and dance will be held at Poor's grove sometime this month.

Glad of Thanks.

To the friends of the Odd Fellows, and all friends, who with loving sympathy, made the dark hours of gloom in our late bereavement light as possible, we desire to extend our gratitude and heart-felt thanks.

Mrs. JOHN BELZ AND FAMILY.

Poor Day.

Only one couple from this state of sunshine and flowers yesterday. What's up? Must be something wrong somewhere.

Large Sale of Cattle.

The N. C. & O. narrow gauge brought in a train of twenty cars loaded with beef cattle yesterday. Two more trains of the same number of cars are expected today.

The cattle were sold to an eastern buyer by the Ward brothers, and were shipped from Amadee.

The whole number is about 1200 head. Nevada's beeves are still in demand.

We learned at a late hour last night that Ward brothers have not sold the 1,200 head of cattle mentioned above, but are shipping them to Ogallala, Nebraska, over the U. P., where the herd is to be pastured.

Scarlet Fever in Town.

The small child of E. L. Williams, district attorney, is sick with scarlet fever. Every precaution has been taken to prevent the spread of the dread disease, yet one cannot be too careful when such a dreaded malady is about.

In the hot summer months a fever of any description is extremely dangerous. Look to it that sanitary conditions are in perfect condition about your homes.

Thunder and Lightning.

Friday morning was oppressively sultry, but in the afternoon the atmosphere was cooled by a refreshing shower. The electrical storm played havoc with the telephone and telegraph paraphernalia. Switch boards were burnt out, instruments got out of gear and take it all in all there was a regular "monkey and parrot time."

The "Owl."

This new and popular resort holds its customers by the attentive service rendered, square management and first class goods.

SHARON GETS CROWN POINT

This Mine Has Played an Important Part in Political History of Nevada.

The Crown Point mine has passed into the hands of the Sharon people, and the hoisting works will be dismantled; the mine will be worked through the Yellow Jacket shaft. New electrical machinery is to be put into the Yellow Jacket and Belcher shafts, and will be operated by cheap power from the Truckee River General Electric Company.

The Carson Appeal speaks thusly of these mines:

The history of these mines almost comprises the political history of the State. For many years these mines rocked the stock market and millions changed hands with the stock fluctuations of these properties.

For years there was a perpetual struggle between the Jones and Sharon factions. Some times one was on top and some times the other. Sharon reached the Senate, and so did Jones.

It is held by politicians that the capturing of Crown Point is a shrewd move on the part of the Sharon forces to put Jones in a position where he will have no foothold on the Comstock two years from now, when there is expected to be a fight between Jones and Newlands for the senatorship. The Newlands people claim the Jones residence really belongs to the Crown Point mine, and that he will have to build a new house to claim residence in Nevada.

The Jones people say that Crown Point, being a played-out mine, is no longer a factor in the control of the Comstock, and that the Jones people could have easily retained it had they been disposed to have made a fight for it. As for the house, they say it is Jones' private residence and does not belong to the Crown Point Mining Company at all, and that the company will not claim it.

Despite all talk to the contrary, it is generally believed that the capture of Crown Point by Sharon is at least a kopie lost by the Jones forces, but how important it may be as a factor in the fight of two years from now remains to be determined.

Farewell Reception.

Last evening at the Pavilion was held the first annual reception to the High School graduates.

The first part of the evening was devoted to a literary program. One of the numbers—a song written by Mrs. Layton—was something out of the ordinary.

Dancing, indulged in by a happy crowd of young people, kept the old Pavilion vibrating with music and the tread of many feet, until little birds began to twitter as the light in the east grew red.

The seniors will hold their graduation exercises on Friday, the twenty-second day of June.

The Fourth Elsewhere.

Every little burg in Nevada intends celebrating the fourth of next July. Elaborate preparations are being pushed rapidly along. Those Renotties who have friends here and there can put on their visiting caps and bid them hence, for Reno will be strictly dead on that day. It has been many a year since we had the real, rousing time that is so dear to the hearts of young America.

Johnson Don't Like Chinamen.

Mr. Johnson Sides, accompanied by his aged brother, Dick Sides, came into the JOURNAL office yesterday morning and gave utterance to the ensuing baraque:

"Now I wish to say I don't like these Chinamen get much reason to keep this gin and smokum opium down to Chinatown—ruining all Injun. Dey give what look lak bad job on Injun—sell whiskey, sell um smoke-pipe all time, that is wrong—altogether.

Tramps no sell opium but whiskey, to Injun, this very bad also. not only this town but Wadsworth, Carson—every Nevada town—have Chinamen who keep whiskey and opium to sell to Injuns and ruin them all time."

Here's a pointer from wise old Sides: "In Truckee town, no Chinamen can live, Injuns very good there; but in Reno, Wadsworth, all towns where Chinamen live, Injuns are tempted by gin and opium.

Chinamen no good to this country, they send all their money across water to China, but Injun are free with their money, spend much for clothing, shoes, bread (he didn't mention whiskey) and do everything to help this country; Police should make Chinamen leave this country, they heap bad."

Sides is "big Injun" among the Putes and takes much interest in their welfare. He left a letter with us which may be published in another issue.

Funeral of John Belz.

The friends of the late John Belz paid their last respects to his earthly remains yesterday afternoon at the residence of the family.

The funeral rites were under the auspices of Amly Lodge No. 19 Knights of Pythias, besides this lodge members of the Odd Fellows attended the funeral of their brother in a body.

The line of carriages and different fraternities made an impressive cortege as it wound slowly westward to the new cemetery on the hill. Peace to the ashes of Johnny Belz.

The Recent Fire.

Sanford Plummer has returned from Susanville. He gives a very thrilling account of the big fire at unlucky Susanville. Aroused by the shriek and clamor of whistles and cries, he got into the hottest of the fight against fire, rendering much assistance to those in distress.

Too Much Water.

The Orr ditch is running bank full and over, much to the annoyance of residents on Vine street. A sloppy stream of liquid makes street crossing anything but a pleasant undertaking.
